

This document provides in clear all the information that was used during the F1 Strategy Competition with the exception of race strategy.

The expected results are run using a simple code that simulates theoretical seasons. This codes is comprised of two modules. The first of these modules is the same as the one used during the (livestreamed) driver signing phase. It is optional and allocates the available drivers to the competing teams based on their marketing investments and using the same probability law. The second module takes the team lineups (engine, chassis, driver 1 and driver 2) and ranks the drivers on each circuit as a function of their performance level and taking into account circuit-specific bonuses. The module then applies a random DNF filter to the ranking with the same probability as for the races and attributes points to the surviving drivers in their ranking order. The point attribution and the races are the same as in the championship.

For Section 1, the code is run with a loop around both of these modules to average results over  $10^7$  seasons. For Section 2, the code is run in the same way except that the driver signing module is deactivated and the lineup is set to the official one for each simulated season.
